

A more equitable, engaged and inclusive Aotearoa informed by community knowledge

Iwi, communities, national and local changemakers have increased knowledge and understanding of diverse communities from community research

Increased use of community-based knowledge and research for advocacy, policy-making and practice

Iwi, communities, national and local changemakers seek out and value community knowledge and research

Iwi, communities, national and local changemakers can access and understand the community knowledge and research they need

Whanaungatanga

Manaakitanga

Rangatiratanga

More visible and readily accessible targeted community evidence for current advocacy, policy-making and practice activities

We consider active opportunities where community evidence can influence positive change

We create, curate, and repackage to deliver high quality, accessible content of value to Iwi, communities and changemakers

Diverse sector/people/ communities more easily access and understand community knowledge/ research/evaluation

Evidence production by Iwi, communities/change-makers is well supported by knowledge-makers/ researchers/evaluators

Researchers adopt good practice, feel supported and connected, and their value and visibility is up-lifted

The mana of community knowledge is upheld and the reputation of community research is high

The quality of community research is high and community researchers are highly valued

Community Research Researcher Directory and activities support and celebrate researchers, and foster good practice

TE TIRITI
O
WAITANGI

Elevate the profile of Community Research with increased awareness of who we are, our kaupapa, collections and activities

Community Research positioned within the community sector alongside knowledge/ research groups and values-aligned change makers

Diverse audiences, including knowledge makers, engage with and contribute to Community Research mahi

Connections with tangata whenua and diverse communities

Strong reciprocal relationships which are purposeful, active, constructive, authentic and inclusive

We centre te Tiriti o Waitangi in everything we do